- Once upon a time, there was a big, yellow sun which warmed the whole earth.
- Sun rays reached out from the middle of the sun in all directions.
- Suddenly, clouds appeared and covered the sun.
- Then came the wind. It blew harder and harder.
- Then, it turned into a hurricane and a tornado.
- Then came the lightning.
- Then came the thunder.
- After that came the rain.
- It rained harder and harder.
- The rain turned to hail.
- Then the hail turned to snow – and everything was covered in a blanket of white.
- All you could see was a cat climbing up to the roof of the house – then another cat joined – climbing on to the roof of the house – then a third cat climbed up to the roof of the house.
- Then fog appeared and everything was quiet and still.
- Until, out came the sun again, burned away the fog and everything was warm and bright once again.
